

YLED

Youth Leadership and Entrepreneurship Development (YLED) is an award winning, NGO that develops young people with the aim of positioning them for future success (in communities, academia, business and workplace). We endeavour to impart life skills for success and develop the entrepreneurial spirit amongst in-school learners and out-of-school youth from diverse communities and backgrounds to upskill and prepare them for the future.

YLED imparts life skills for success and develops the entrepreneurial spirit amongst in-school learners and out-of-school youth from historically disadvantaged and urban communities by upskilling and preparing them for the future.

They are expected to bring forth innovative ideas and launch businesses or build solid careers that contribute to the economic revitalisation, reduction of poverty and youth unemployment.

With life, leadership and entrepreneurship training and ongoing support, these young people can soon be driven to achieve academic, career and entrepreneurial success which will see them supplementing their income and even supporting themselves full-time through their new enterprises

To-date more than 20 000 learners from a number of high schools in Gauteng, Limpopo, Western Cape and KwaZulu-Natal have benefited from YLED efforts.

The Entrepreneur

Steven Zwane, a visionary social entrepreneur, is on a mission to empower youth through entrepreneurship, driven by a profound love for education and a commitment to social change. His academic journey, including a BSc. in Computer Science from the University of Zululand (SA), an MBA, and a DBA from Durham University (UK), reflects his dedication to knowledge and its transformative potential. Steven's pursuit of social change was recognized with the prestigious Nelson Mandela Scholarship, further fuelling his commitment to making a difference.

In 2004, Steven laid the foundation for his impactful journey by initiating the Letsema Mentoring program at Accenture, marking the beginning of what would evolve into Youth Leadership and Entrepreneurship Development (YLED). Guided by his passion for transformative education, Steven transformed YLED from a grassroots initiative into a formidable non-profit organization. His strategic acumen and unwavering commitment facilitated the formalization of YLED in 2014, aligning with the goal of being youth-led.

Under Steven's leadership, YLED has left an indelible mark, impacting over 20,000 young people over the course of its existence. His 2023 doctoral research revealed compelling statistics, with 98% of participants exhibiting entrepreneurial intention and 95% pursuing academic pathways and employability.

Steven Zwane's rich educational background, coupled with his commitment to social impact, exemplifies his journey as a change-maker. His vision for a better future and belief in the transformative power of education drive both his personal pursuits and the profound impact of YLED on the lives of countless young individuals. Drawing inspiration from Nelson Mandela, Steven aligns his mission with Mandela's wisdom, viewing education as a powerful tool for change and choices reflecting hope over fear. In the spirit of Mandela's enduring legacy, Steven remains dedicated to creating positive change and empowering the youth to shape a better world.

Worksheet Ten:

Interview a Social Entrepreneur

Worksheet 10

Identify, contact, and interview the entrepreneur; reflect on the entrepreneur engagement experience; and share lessons, recommendations, and feedback.

Worksheet 10.1

In this section, your task is to interview a social entrepreneur in your neighbourhood and explore their understanding of entrepreneurship. Through this interview, you will gain insights into the challenges and opportunities that come with starting and running a business.

Step 1:

Identify an entrepreneur in your neighbourhood whom you would like to interview. You can use various resources, such as social media, local business directories, or word of mouth, to find them.

Step 2:

Contact the entrepreneur and request an interview. You can do this via email, phone call, or in-person visit. Explain the purpose of the interview, the time required, and the expected outcomes.

Step 3:

Prepare a set of questions for the interview. This will help you to focus the conversation and ensure that you cover all the essential aspects of entrepreneurship. Some potential questions might include:

- What inspired you to start your social enterprise?
- What are some of the biggest challenges you faced when starting your social enterprise?
- How did you overcome these challenges?
- What has been your most successful social enterprise so far, and why?
- What advice would you give to someone who wants to start their own social enterprise?

Step 4:

Conduct the interview. This can be done in-person, over the phone, or via video conferencing. Make sure to record the conversation with the entrepreneur's permission.

Step 5:

Analyze the data collected during the interview. This can be done by reviewing the recording, taking notes, and summarizing the key findings.

Step 6:

Reflect on the insights gained from the interview. This can be done individually or as a group. Consider the challenges and opportunities faced by entrepreneurs and how they impact the local economy.

Step 7:

Write a report summarizing the interview and your reflections. This can be done in the form of a written essay, a presentation, or a video. Make sure to include key takeaways from the interview and any recommendations for aspiring entrepreneurs.

The Author

Dr Steven Zwane (BSc Computer Science - University of Zululand, SA; Master of Business Administration & Doctor of Business Administration - Durham University, UK)

Dr. Steven Zwane is a highly accomplished entrepreneur and dedicated educator, renowned for his influential role in shaping youth leadership and entrepreneurship in South Africa. As the visionary founder of Youth Leadership and Entrepreneurship Development, Steven has empowered over 20,000 young minds, particularly focusing on Grade 11 students, imparting crucial entrepreneurship skills.

With a wealth of experience spanning two decades, Steven holds a prominent position as an entrepreneurship, operations, and strategy lecturer at the Gordon Institute of Business Science. Recently earning his Doctor of Business Administration from Durham University Business School (UK), he solidifies his commitment to entrepreneurship education.

Steven's research is centered on youth entrepreneurship, education frameworks, and role modeling, particularly for the underprivileged. His doctoral research, "Determining the Influence of Entrepreneurial Intervention on Entrepreneurial Intentions of Youth in South Africa," showcases his dedication to enhancing entrepreneurship training among in-school youth.

Beyond academia, Steven is a devoted volunteer facilitator at YLED for over 20 years, actively contributing to program design and execution. His hands-on involvement adds authenticity to his advocacy for embedding entrepreneurship education in the South African curriculum from an early age.

Through his impactful Entrepreneurship Workbook series, Steven demonstrates practical methods to extend entrepreneurship lessons to the youth. The workbook features entrepreneurs who generously shared their real-world experiences, reinforcing Steven's commitment to making entrepreneurship education an integral part of South Africa's educational framework. His vision is clear: to empower the next generation with the knowledge and mindset for economic independence and job creation.

Dr. Steven Zwane, holding a BSc in Computer Science from the University of Zululand, South Africa, is a distinguished Entrepreneurship Advocate and Educator.
